Buys Cone With $50 Bill; Trouble Begins

An Angel-Faced Youngster Finds Wealth Embarrassing.

NEWARK, N. J. — A 10-year-old boy with an angelic face was ordering a six-cent chocolate ice cream cone when he found, to his embarrassment, he had nothing less than a $50 bill.

His predicament attracted the attention of Police Sgt. Edward O'Mara, who thereupon subjected him to a psychological inquisition and what is known as a quick frisk. The former produced confusion and the latter a $100 bill.

At police headquarters the youngster was recognized as an old offender, with a police record going back to when he was 5 years old.

Realizing that the jig was up, he confessed that he and a 9-year-old boy had found a safe in the Whitehead and Hoag company plant. They entered the place by climbing a high wire fence and smashing a rear window.

In the warehouse they found two safes. The first was full of valuable metals, which the boys rejected. The other safe held coupon certificates and only $1,600 in large bills. They took the money and departed for a weekend spree at movies and soda fountains.

The parents of the 9-year-old boy brought him to police headquarters, and he was found to have $11 on his person. He said that he threw some money down a sewer, where detectives fished out a $100 bill.

The boys' names were not made public. Police said the elder had been in custody at least twice before for shoplifting in 5 and 10 cent stores.

Bridegroom Is in Hospital During Wedding in Church

HASTINGS, NEB. — It was a beautiful wedding but the bridegroom missed it.

The organist at the First Methodist church played nuptial music. The soloist sang, the candles were lighted and the bridal party welcomed some 100 guests.

Then the Rev. Ralph Rasmussen rose to his feet and told the assemblage that Robert Kellogg and Miss Phyllis Osterbuhr had been married a few hours earlier so that Kellogg could be rushed to the hospital for an emergency appendectomy.

Judge Releases Embezzler; Assails Bank for Low Pay

DETROIT. — Federal Judge Frank A. Picard refused to send a Commonwealth bank employee to jail for embezzlement after accusing the institution's officials of "dangling large sums of money" before him and of underpaying him.

The judge suspended a one-year-and-a-day sentence upon Arthur Alfred Craig, 42, even though Craig admitted taking $2,360 in a two-year period by juggling service charge records. He placed Craig on probation for two years.

"I'm not condoning you," Judge Picard told the defendant. "Stealing is stealing. It is never justified."

In questioning Craig, the judge brought out that he had been employed by the bank for 15 years and was head of the analysis department at a salary averaging $250 monthly.

"The bank informs me you were one of its best men," Judge Picard said. "You worked late hours and appeared to have the bank's interest at heart. A man with your position at the bank has to maintain a certain standing in the community. If they expect you to wear a white shirt at work, they should pay a white shirt salary."

Poultry Prices Reported At Same Level as 1926

CHICAGO.— Harried housewives, confronted by ever-mounting costs in the food budget, were assured by the Poultry and Egg National board that at least one commodity—chicken—can be purchased for the same price today as in 1926.

Using the recognized base year of 1926, poultry values today are 100 as compared with 163 for all foods, Horner I. Huntington, general manager of the board, reports. The figure is based on the commodity index of the department of labor, which uses 1926 as a base year to record the rise and fall of wholesale prices of basic commodities. Retail prices, which determine the cost of living, generally reflect the wholesale prices, Huntington adds.

Reasons advanced for the low cost trend of poultry today as compared with other foods include: High cost of grain in forcing fowl to market; large freezer supply, and increased efficiency in producing and processing poultry.

Brothers Married Same Day; Wives of Each Ask Divorce

ST. JOSEPH, MO.—Leo W. Munson and Floyd E. Munson, brothers, were married on the same day—and their wives both filed suits for divorce the same day.

The brothers took brides at Troy, Kas., on June 4, one in a morning ceremony and one in the afternoon. The divorce suits were filed July 15 in circuit court in this city.

Germans Flee Labor In Reich Russ Zone

Thousands Entering U. S. Area, Officials Report.

FRANKFURT, GERMANY. — American officials report that thousands of Germans are entering the U. S. zone from the Soviet zone of the Reich. The Germans claim they are fleeing from labor in Soviet-operated uranium mines and a new registration order for veterans.

An American spokesman said the Russians were reported operating pitchblende mines near Obeasclemma in Saxony on a 24-hour basis. Uranium is derived from pitchblende.

At least 2,000 Germans crossed from the Soviet to the U. S. zone without American permission during a two-week period, a report to Frankfurt said. The influx is continuing.

The majority of arrivals from Saxony told American and German officials all males in that state between 16 and 60 have been ordered to register for work in the mines.

The mine shafts, 3,500 feet deep, were reported to be in the Erzgebirge "Mountains of Ore," a prewar spa area noted for its radioactive waters.

Some arrivals told German police women were registered for mine work.

The pitchblende is reported taken to Russia. Some arrivals claimed that as many as a million Germans were involved in the operations.

The Germans claim a day's absence from work means the loss of three days' food rations. Longer absences bring jail sentences.

A photostatic copy of a Soviet zone registration card carried by a former naval technician showed that veterans were given three days to report for registration.

Failure to report could be punished by 150-mark fines or six weeks in prison.

Blacksmith and Son Shut Shop; Auto Here to Stay

RACINE, WIS. — Frank Stegner, 85, and his son, Joseph, 59, closed their blacksmith shop and reluctantly admitted that the "horseless carriage" was here to stay.

They said they would take a rest. The father has been shoeing horses for 63 years, the son for 44 years.

Despite the decrease in the number of horses, the Stegners kept fairly busy during the last few years, as their shop was one of the few in this area that survived the motor age.

The son said he had been "too busy shoeing horses" to marry.

"But now that I have a little free time, I might start looking for a girl," he said.

Latest Gadget May Change Government Airport Plans

WASHINGTON. — A $150,000 federal project that produced a successful cross-wind landing gear may force drastic revision of the Government's $60 million dollar nationwide airport building program.

T. P. Wright, civil aeronautics administrator, announced that "full-out consideration of the effects of this new CAA development on the whole airport problem now is under way."

The result could be that the public will get more airports for its money, or the same number of airports now planned but for only one-third the estimated cost.

The swiveling gear, successfully tested on small planes and believed feasible for transports, makes possible landings on a single runway regardless of wind direction. It eventually could make multiple-runway airports obsolete.

Jabbed Constantly by Wife's Knees, He Can't Get Divorce

LONDON. — Walter Humphries, who said his wife kept him awake nights by jabbing her knees into his back, was denied a divorce. The court ruled he was not entitled to a divorce on the ground of cruelty.

At Bodmin, in Cornwall, meanwhile, Judge Scobell Armstrong refused to grant a divorce to Walter Trudgeon, who said his wife tried to lure a 20-year-old boy into the house with an apple.

Armstrong said, however, that the Biblical account of Eve tempting Adam with an apple was "not a story which is very creditable to Eve." He dismissed the suit because of lack of evidence.

Find Sticks of Explosives In Two London Automobiles

LONDON.—Three sticks of an explosive, believed to be gelignite, and seven detonators were found in an automobile parked in front of the Daily Express office.

The driver, whose name was not disclosed, said he found the explosive wrapped in a newspaper, wedged behind the drivers' seat, when he returned to the car after a short absence.

A quarter of an hour later authorities said seven sticks of gelignite and 18 commercial type detonators were found in an automobile in Whitehall court, near the House of Parliament, Scotland Yard and other government centers.

Smash Atom in New Cyclotron

Layout of Elements New to Science Reported at California.

BERKELEY, CALIF.—First formal achievement of the giant postwar cyclotron at University of California was reported as a devastating smashup of the atom, yielding a whole layout of strange new transmuted elements.

This initial effort of the 4,000-ton concrete-caged mechanical monster opens the way for production of upwards of 100 new radioactive elements for scientific research. At present there are about 450 radioactive and 275 stable forms of the conventional elements.

An atom was extensively smashed by a man-made machine for the first time on record. Heretofore atom-smashing has consisted of knocking one or two bits off the nucleus. Even an atom bomb explosion divides a nucleus into not more than five parts.

Wrought Real Havoc.

The cyclotron wrought havoc by hurling 200 million-volt bullets at atoms of arsenic. The arsenic nuclei were shattered into at least 22 and possibly as many as 30 pieces.

At least 10 of these pieces were themselves elements of regular matter. At one stroke the big machine had turned one relatively heavy element into many different lighter elements, with some spare parts left over.

Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg and Dr. Isadore Perlman, who were among the top researchers on the atom bomb, reported the work to the American Physical society meeting at Stanford university. The experimenters included Dr. B. B. Cunningham, Dr. H. H. Hopkins, Dr. Manfred Linder, Dr. D. S. Miller, Dr. P. R. O'Connor and Dr. R. C. Thompson.

The hitherto unknown products of these operations will increase the versatility of atomic medicine and the various branches of research which use radioactive substances. The different forms of the elements mean different rates of radioactivity or different kinds of radiation.

Time Factor Important.

For example, the first form of radioactive carbon, produced before the outbreak of World War II, was radioactive for only a few minutes. Experimenters in biological research sometimes failed because the radioactivity gave out before the biological process was completed. A radio-carbon of longer life would help their problem. The new elements from the cyclotron will solve other such problems.

In one of the operations, the experimenters used the nuclei of helium atoms for bullets. These nuclei were whirled around in the cyclotron chamber until they had the striking power of 400 million volts and then were turned against a target of uranium atoms. They produced fission of a different kind than in the atom bomb. The breakdown products included two kinds of radium and a form of astatine, which is element No. 85 in the regular periodic table.

Uncle Sam Says

Millions of my young nieces and nephews are returning to school to learn from their teacher, schoolmates and books a way of life. Besides grammar, history, arithmetic, home economics and a variety of other courses, they will come face to face with sportsmanship, honesty, self-reliance and the habit of thrift. Facts crammed into the heads of Willie and Jane will come in handy, but thrift is something which will be vital to their well-being every day of their lives. Of course the habit of thrift may be acquired in many ways, but a sure way is the participation of my young nieces and nephews in the United States Treasury Department's School Savings Program.

U. S. Farmer Is Best Fed

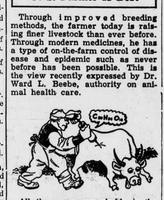
Through improved breeding methods, the farmer today is raising finer livestock than ever before. Through modern medicines, he has a type of on-the-farm control of disease and epidemics such as never before has been possible. This is the view recently expressed by Dr. Ward L. Beebe, authority on animal health care.



All the more remarkable is the fact that the farmer has accomplished this despite a ratio of only one veterinarian engaged in farm work for more than 25,000 farm animals.

Beet Top Silage Cuts Requirement for Hay

The best feading practices have demonstrated that by use of beet top silage in the ration, the hay requirements may be reduced by one-half in the feeding for production of beef, mutton or milk. The succulent value of the silage supplements its actual feeding properties and that of forage and other feeds. Many feeders think that the silage has a value almost equal to good hay, ton for ton.
